

Adventures in World-Line Travel

In this post, I describe some of my experiences or “adventures” in world-line travel. As I have stated previously, many of the world-line slides that I cycled through were fairly bland. The changes were for the most part insignificant. Each one looked nearly identical to the one before it.

Oh, sure I was provided with some extreme examples when I was first being trained, but in operations it was hardly the same. This post describes some of the world-lines that I visited and how they differ from this current one. Here are some of the more interesting or noteworthy world-lines.

The reader must keep in mind that I had no control over my destination world-line. That was controlled by the “pilot” who manipulated the artifice which interfaced with my ELF probes and EBP. I might be considered the “commander”, but for the most part, I was just a frazzled traveler.

Let's start off describing an odd world-line.

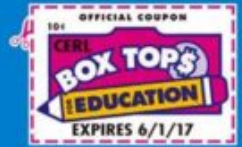

The Spicy World-Line

Back in the early 1990's I spent almost a week (which was a long time – most switches occurred hours apart, or days at the most) on a world-line that enjoyed spicy food. Imagine my surprise when my wife added hot chili peppers to my bowl of Cheerios! Not sugar. No. Dried red hot chilies were sprinkled on it, instead of sugar, and then warm milk was poured over it. Everything on that world-line was spicy. Everything.

Toasted Whole Grain Oat Cereal

*Three grams of soluble fiber daily from whole grain oat foods, like Cheerios cereal, in a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol, may reduce the risk of heart disease. Cheerios cereal provides 1 gram per serving.

NET WT 1 LB 2 OZ (18 OZ) (510g)

The Cheerios box looked maybe something a little like this. Please excuse my very poor Photoshop efforts. I am just a hobbyist. Picture is for illustrative purposes only, and the reader should note that the actual box looked similar to this, but this is not the actual box.

That included “spicy coke”, the red colored can of “Blistering coke plus”, and “Pepsi hot”. There were also cans of “Inferno”, and hot and spicy chewing gum. You could also get a magma milkshake.

Aside from that difference, the world-line was very similar to my initial departure world-line. I know that it sounds very dull, uninteresting, and boring, but that was the way it was. I never made aggressive slides to wildly divergent world-lines outside of my training.

I do not know why this world-line was so important, nor do I understand what the significance was for eating spicy food.

Luckily, for some reason, my stomach was able to handle all the spicy food. Which makes me really wonder about world-line travel. How can my mind and memories be that of another world-line, when my physical self has totally adapted to the new world-line. The only way that I can reconcile this fact, is that the consciousness, and memories reside above and apart of a given world-line. Yet the physical body is part of a given world-line.

This would also explain why sometimes I would have a tattoo, or a scar, or (even) nail-polish on my fingernails, and have no memories associated with the changes. My memories resided outside of the physical body. When I galloped back and forth and in and out of the different world-lines, I was stuck with my old memories.

It's sort of like the movie “Hot Tub Time Machine”, where (at the end of the movie) they left the hot tub and found that they had new houses, new wives, and new lives that they had no recall of.

Other than that issue about spicy food items, the world-line was very similar to all the others. There were no “extra characters” that messed up with my spelling ability like the “rune” world-line. Or the “sickly world-line” where everyone was suffering (and I do mean suffering) with some kind of very terrible illness.

Speaking of which...

The Sick World Line

I once traveled on a world-line that scared the living heck out of me. It was in the early 1990-s. Maybe 1992. And early October. Leaves were turning and it was a very beautiful time of the year with crisp blue skies.

Luckily it was only for a few hours. I was at work, and I cycled into a new world line as I often did in the past. When I got up from my desk to go and get a Dr. Pepper, I noticed that everyone looked very sick.

I mean everyone.

Everyone was coughing. Some were even coughing up blood in tissues. They were all terribly sick and many just sat at their desk or collapsed in the chair. It looked like they were exhausted and taking a nap.

I too was beginning to get sick...

..but it wasn't so bad. It was just a shallow dry cough. I had a slight headache and a fever, as did just about everyone else. The only thing about this, and the reason why I was so fearful, was that my chest felt like it was full of cement. It felt "solid", if that makes any sense to you all. I couldn't take in air, and everything was an exertion.

I never understood why everyone was so sick, or the conditions for it on that world-line.

I tried to listen to the radio at lunch, but no one was saying anything about sickness or an outbreak. Which was really odd, as it seemed to me that the entire city was sickly and dying off. Instead the news was all about some basketball player who died in an airplane accident. They were also going on and on about how "there were no masks" which was pretty silly. After all, not having masks during the Halloween season is really a "tempest in a teacup".

Anyways, I will tell you that I was starting to really panic. I couldn't get much air in my chest at all, and I was afraid that I wasn't going to survive the world line.

I do remember Rush Limbaugh (Yes, he was on that world-line) talking about the up-coming war with the "Chi-Coms", and that their military was no match for ours. He kept on referring to them as "bat soup slurping Chi-Coms". That we would just be able to walk all over them, and they wouldn't have a fighting chance. Whether this sickness was a consequence of the bellicose nature of the Neocons in the United States, or a preemptive WMD attack by China, on that world-line, I never found out.

I was only on that world-line for maybe four or five hours.

The entire time started about 10:00 in the morning, and went through lunch, and ended before the end of my work day. Everyone in the company was sick and (I think) dying. The factory floor was deserted, with just a handful of people resting in the break rooms.

At lunch, I drove to eat some fast food.

There wasn't much going on. Though this world line didn't have the "city chicken" special that I had grown fond of. They did however have this option called "super-sizing" where you could make everything bigger (soda and fries) for only a dollar more. Which was pretty cool, except that my wallet wasn't full of money. I had a "married mans wallet". Just a few dollars, and moths that flew out when you opened it (LOL – joke).

The streets were deserted, and McDonald's was in the process of closing.

It was really odd, and completely out of sorts with what you would expect a CDC-level medical emergency to be like. No one was covered with sores, though when I looked at people my "minds eye" would conjure up images of smallpox victims.

Smallpox victim.

People looked... well normal and ordinary. Everyone seemed fine, aside from being sickly and very tired.

That's it, don't you know.

Our images of what to expect are colored by history, our own experiences, and the thoughts of others. In my mind, I felt that this was a bioweapon event. Though, even though that is what it felt like, it was not what it appeared to be. It just seemed like a rather quiet time where the few people who were around were sick... very sick.

After all, if it was a bioweapon attack, then why wasn't anyone talking about World War III? It just didn't make sense to me at all. People were acting as if nothing was going on, even though (obviously) a sizable portion of the population was staying home and not going outside.

What I took from that entire experience is that there is a big difference between talking about war, and living through it.

Heed my advice.

The World-line without Zippers

Most world-lines looked like every other one. When you slide, you just cannot notice any difference. Once, I did a slide and everything looked the same. No big deal. As always, I just continued to do my work. My work assignments were the same, and my friends were the same and my wife was the same. My pets were the same. However, I did notice something different when I went to the bathroom to take a pee.

Imagine that! The pants did not use a zipper. It had buttons instead. Imagine my surprise.

My trousers did not have a zipper. Instead of a zipper were buttons. That's correct. There were three buttons that I had to undo to go and pee. I don't know if I liked having a button front, or a zipper front. I think a zipper front is much more convenient, but there was something clean and simple about having buttons...

Maybe it's a good idea. But, I'll tell you what, I have yet to encounter trousers with buttons in my present (semi-fixed) world-line.

The Plastic Surgery World-line

Most of the world-line slides occurred within hours or days. This period of time, a mere few hours, is not long enough to determine what the differences are in a new world-line. That is because, and I remind the reader, that most of my world-line slides were very similar to the previous world-line. This was by intention and was necessary for a host of reasons.

The advertisement looked something a little like this. Of course there was a company name and address on the advertisement. I also don't remember the doctors name. But, yeah, it looked something like this.

I well remember that I once went into a new world-line that looked identical to the previous one. However there was one noticeable difference that I well recall. It was so odd that I will never forget it.

There was an advertisement for a plastic surgery hospital. On the billboard was an attractive woman who was cradling her tummy as she was obviously nine months pregnant. The words in the advertisement went something like this; “ Let Doctor XXXXXX sculpt your body for the expectant mother look.” WTF?

In that world-line you could have plastic surgery that would make you look like you were nine months pregnant. Talk about doing a “double take”!

Most Other World-lines

Most of the other world-lines, including my original world-line had certain features that differ from the world-line that I currently occupy. I wouldn't go as far as these differences are significant, but they are noticeable.

This refers to world-lines that I visited. Not which exists. For I do not know of the sum totality of everything. I only know what I was exposed to. This is a very important distinction.

Perhaps the first thing that I would say is the most noticeable is that McDonald's is different. That's true. On this current world-line McDonald's has this “golden arch” symbol that looks like an “M”. But on most of the other world lines, the McDonald's aren't so obviously “corporate” and maintain a “twin rainbow” arch design.

Most Other World-Lines

This Present World-Line

Most other world-lines also use better English than this current one does. I think that the reason is because on other world-lines they still (for the most part) maintain a more traditional education system where Latin and Greek are still taught.

Yes, the globalist push for diversity of race over cultural adaptation is present in most all of the other world-lines; however none were so advanced in achieving it as in this world-line. Of, course that is only based on what I have been exposed to.

Most other world-lines have merit based (American) welfare programs, and speak English. California is also known as the “outlier” in most other world-lines, and yes, most other world-lines do refer to the 9th Circuit Court as the “9th Circus court”. (Thank Bill Clinton for that. He was the successful architect of that.)

Yet, this world-line is nearly unique (compared to the bulk of the others that I visited) in a number of areas. For instance, on most other world-lines that I have visited, the American roads are paved in cement and not asphalt. Here it is the other way around. Toll booths, roadside rest areas, and picnic tables seem to be stable elements across all the world-lines that I have ventured into.

Not too many changes there.

Campbell's Soups are just as popular on other world-lines, but here the most popular soups are tomato and chicken noodle, but on other world lines it is more evenly spread out. If you look at the store shelves, instead of having tomato and chicken noodle cans you are just as likely to find vegetable and beef-rice soups.

Pit Bulls aren't so popular on other world-lines as they apparently are here. Poodles and Collies seem to be.

Cats are cats, and are everywhere. Though, many of them have wings (no kidding!) It's an evolutionary item that isn't that predominant on this world line. It is a fur covered flap of skin that the cats have. Not every cat has this, but a goodly percentage does. Maybe as much as 60% on some world-lines.

Some of my cats would be death from above to the birds pecking at the ground below.

A cat with wings is more common place on other world-lines. On this world--line it is a rarity. These are not wings with a bone structure like a bird, rather it is fold of loose skin that the cat uses to glide down from a tree on to it's prey.

Things that would and wouldn't change

For the most part, my wife and pets pretty much stayed the same. After a slide, my "new" wife would be nearly identical to my "previous slide" wife. Of course, my wife did not participate in any slides, so her memories were always those associated with the world-line she inhabited.

In some world-lines my wife would be heavier, while in others she might be thinner. Hair styles, dress and behaviors always were a function of the given world-line.

You might think that it might be cool to have a different wife with each world-line slide. Well, that didn't happen. I think that if it did, the mere fact of that would end up altering my personality, thus rendering me useless for my mission parameters. I, and I think most men, need a degree of stability in their life. The women in their life prove this, and it is a core important need.

My cats were different. They seemed to totally be aware of me sliding in and out of world-lines. Don't ask me why I have that impression. I don't think that I can vocalize the reasons accurately except to say that their soul is a matrix soul. Which imparts a kind of multi-dimensional understanding with it.

My dogs also seemed to be aware of the world-line slides. However, they behaved differently. When I would first enter a new world-line they would come up to me timidly and quizzing. Then after a few hours, all would be fine. Only once or twice would my dog stand up, stare at me, and start barking on my world-line arrival.

Some Thoughts

Seriously, if the reader were to use my probes, they would be rather surprised on how little the world-lines change when you slide in and out of them. Trees are still awesome. People fish, hunt, and have pets. Some of which are unusual.

The news is still obnoxious and is still trying to influence how you think.

People engage in vices, and the government tries to limit it so that they can (personally) obtain secondary sources (also known as a "cut") of others income. People fight and squabble. There are rabble, riff-raff, and intel-ligentsia who think that they are better than everyone else (but are actually just people who are trapped in their own neuroses oblivious to the rest of the world).

Major personalities seem to exist in other world-lines. That includes John Wayne, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Hugh Hefner and Donald Trump.

Extreme USA

Let's talk a little bit about some of the world-line slides that I was involved in during the 1990's. That was a crazy decade (from my point of view) for certain.

Early on, before the year 2000, the <redacted> "pilot" was cycling the slides rapidly (for some reason, that I assumed had some real significance) and with large swings in deviance. I guess that the time period in question was the primary reason for my "mission".

Thus, where I would "normally" slide in and out of world-lines of maybe 1% to perhaps 5%, the slides were going much "further out" than that.

The reader might have this idea that I would be exposed to purple colored watermelons, or two moons in the sky. Nope, my experiences were not that extreme. In fact, all of the variances had (or possessed) a common point of origin or common history.

However, this was significantly different. For now, in these great deviance's, the "past" histories were now significantly altered. As such, the observed (manifested) changes were primarily due to significant changes in past histories.

The movement started to engage in changes that derived from changing "past" events as opposed to changing "current" events. For instance, a 2% deviation might have a new world-line where the apple on my kitchen table was now a banana.

A 4% deviation might have us sitting on the floor Japanese or Korean style.

These deviance's represent a change in "current" reality attributes.

However, what was happening was that there was a new attribute incorporated in the changes. This was an added component of reality attribute changes as a function of prior history.

It would be a 2% deviance and an additional 3% deviance of attribute "K".

MWI switching involved a large number of variables. I was trained in the manual manipulation of seven of them. However, I know that there are many, many more.

Typically, the "pilot" would implement these slides to fit the requirements that they felt necessary. I just "rode" the slides as they materialized. Sometimes it was just frazzling, but mostly it wasn't really too bad.

Control of the World-Line Drivers

There is a method towards the control and specification of the coordinates of a new world-line. In the 5th dimensional egress portal mechanism, that was a 5th dimensional system. As far as I understand it is based on coordinates relative to the point of egress.

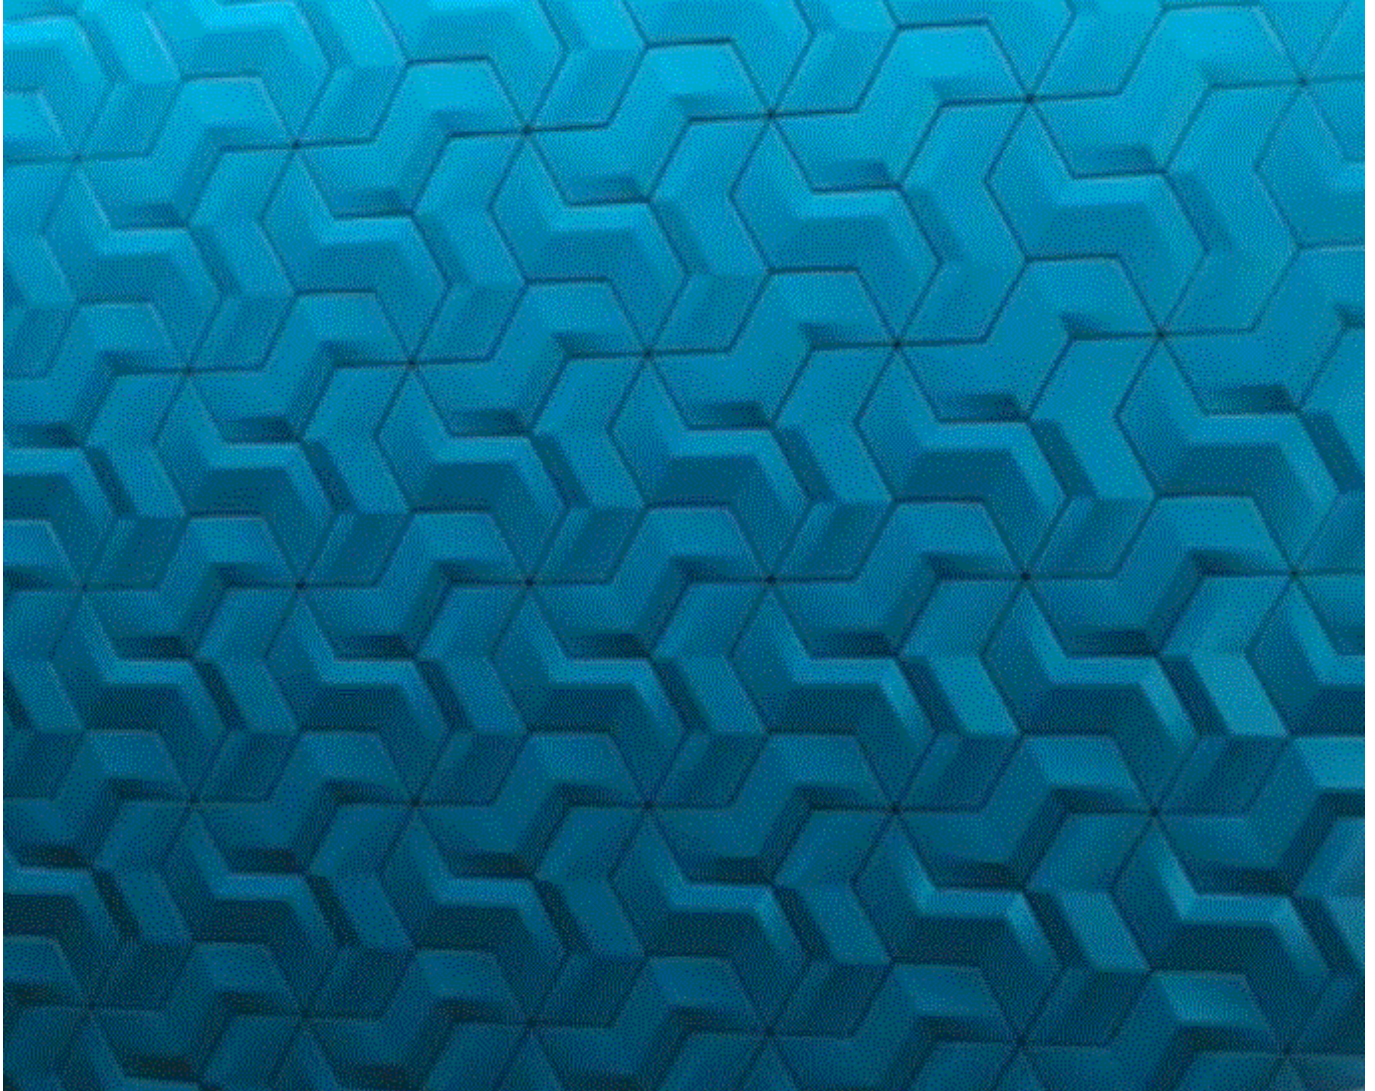

In other words...

Enter portal at 0,0,0,0,0,0,0.
Arrival at coordinates 12,-4,2,0,6,8,-9

However, I was not involved in fifth dimensional portal egress. I was involved in seventh dimensional slides.

The core kit #2 ELF probes interacted with the EBP to enable seventh dimensional egress. This was a much more involved system, with coordinates substantially different from the portal egress methodology. The <redacted> “pilot” did not use numbers for coordinates. It utilized a series of circular symbols to configure the coordinates. And, I haven’t a clue as to how to operate them.

What I do know, however, is that once the coordinates were established, I could always take a look at where I was. As I did have access to the resultant “map” through the ELF core kit #2 probes. However, it was never a very useful or rewarding effort as the location map looked a little something like this;

Seventh dimensional MWI destination “map” as viewed by the traveler through the ELF core kit #2 probes. Image for illustrative purposes only.

Only it was overlaid with similar versions, all seemingly transparent to some degree more or less.

Deep Dive

For a while in the early 1990’s, I went through a significant series of slides that I refer to (personally) as the “Deep Dive”.

However, this time the resultant changes were significant. Utilization of this additional element of deviation resulted in significant changes in realities. I was able to slide in and out of equally strange world lines. (Although none of them were as drastic as a change in weather, language or culture like I experienced early on in China Lake.)

That's the way many of the world-line changes were.

I had no idea what the differences were, and my time on the world-line was often of such a short duration that I never could really investigate what the causes of the changes were. Sometimes however, I could "pin point" a direct cause or event that seemed to be a major mitigating factor.

The Dive Itself

A series of strange divergences started to take place. Each one took place (approximately) on my same world-line but with drastically different "lead up to" histories. I started to slide into world-lines that had critical junctures altered. Each slide was more drastic in influence. Yet each slide resulted in a relatively calm and easygoing lifestyle.

The first slide took place around 1994 and apparently represented a world where "something" was altered in the 1970's. I don't know what was altered. But, in hindsight, the life seemed a little bit better. At least, from my point of view, I had a little more money in my wallet, and I drove a nicer car. This slide was a short one and only lasted maybe eight hours.

That was followed by a slide where the world was significantly different.

I don't know what happened, though I do know that we did not get involved in the Vietnam War. Cuba was our long-time friend. I can only suppose that John F. Kennedy was not killed, and LBJ never became President. This world was even nicer than the previous world-line. I was doing much better, and my house reflected that fact. I know all about this because I spent over a week on this world-line.

Following this, there were a series subsequent deep slides.

Many of which I have no idea what the changes were, but they seemed to go back in time in approximately 10 to 25 year increments. Each time a major event was replaced with (nothing?) something else. The result of this was that each time, my standard of living got progressively better and better. The air was softer and sweeter.

What I mean is that I would go to a world-line where there were some significant changes 25-years in the past of that world-line.

Then, the next world-line after that would go "deeper". I would be on a world-line where the significant changes occurred 35-years in the past of that world-line.

This was how it was like. The slides continued all year, and kept going deeper and deeper changing and reversing events that we today on this world-line consider to be fixed and immobile.

No Taxation of Americans

The funny thing about all these slides is that when you occupy a world-line that you fall in love with, and then come to something resembling this world-line you start to RESENT the changes made in the base-line world-lines.

Nothing was so obvious as to what the morons did to the United States around 1910 to 1920. Those evil, selfish, fucking selfish idiots.

Thomas Woodrow Wilson (December 28, 1856 – February 3, 1924) was an American statesman and academic who served as the 28th President of the United States from 1913 to 1921. A member of the Democratic Party, Wilson served as the President of Princeton University from 1902 to 1910, and as Governor of New Jersey from 1911 to 1913, before winning the 1912 presidential election. As president, he oversaw the passage of progressive legislative policies unparalleled until the New Deal in 1933. He also led the United States during World War I, establishing an activist foreign policy known as "Wilsonianism." Upon taking office, Wilson called a special session of Congress, whose work culminated in the Revenue Act of 1913, introducing a federal income tax which provided revenue lost when tariffs were sharply lowered. He also presided over the passage of the Federal Reserve Act, which created a central banking system in the form of the Federal Reserve System. Other major elements of Wilson's New Freedom agenda included the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Clayton Antitrust Act, and the Adamson Act, all of which established new economic regulations enforced by the federal government.

Ok. Let me discuss this a little bit in detail.

There was a world-line where no one paid any taxes. Yes, the 16th amendment was never ratified. People were happier and healthier, and it was much calmer and quieter time. However, there were trade-offs. Though I do not know if the trade-offs were directly associated with the lack of taxes or other things. The thing that was most notable was that it was pretty much technologically backwards compared to the baseline.

The reader is advised NOT to assume that the passage of the 16th amendment resulted in the technology explosion that we have today. There is no correlation. I am only reporting my experiences, and that includes a world-line that is so described.

Yes, I know this because I was paid in cash and there were absolutely no deductions at all. I was paid what I was earned. I was on this world line for nearly two weeks. It was a long time. (My wife kept on saying that I "felt" really odd to her. And she wanted to know "what was going on". What could I possibly say that wouldn't get me thrown into a mental hospital?)

When you bought something, it was for one dollar, or a dollar and twenty five cents. Not $7.98.

I remember well, how I wanted to get a coke, at a seven-11 and there wasn't any. (Store that is.) I had to go to the gas station and buy a coke. I opened up my wallet and the normal $30 or so that I usually kept was missing. I only had two (paper) dollars and a change purse of coins. So, I gave the kid a liberty dollar coin, and he gave me back ninety five cents! It only cost five cents for a coke in 1994! (Insane.)

The money was also different. Aside from the pennies and nickels there were two and three cent coins!

A 1864 two cent coin.

In my wallet, I had numerous bills all of which looked very, very unusual. They looked "similar to" (NOT "the same as") this;

The money looked very different. Maybe something along the lines of this ancient dollar bill.

I stayed on that world-line for a little over two weeks. Maybe 16 days in total. It was ok, but I really missed the television shows that I was watching at the time. Oh, televisions existed, but I was (apparently) unable to afford them in that world-line.

Instead, we had a big radio that had multiple bands that sat on a table in the living room. It had a brown bakelite plastic housing. When turned on it would light up and give this kind of humming sound.

Newspapers existed, but were different. The newspaper "America Today" was in black and white instead of the colorful "USA Today".

Before the "Deep Dive", I would work and then go home. At home we would have a meal and watch our favorite television shows. My wife would sometimes play her electric piano. Then we would go to bed.

Not now. Before the "deep dive", I would come home and plop myself down in front of the television set.

In this new world-line, my new reality, we didn't watch television. We didn't even own one! Yes, we had many conveniences in the kitchen, but the groceries were totally different. Mostly they were canned and dry goods. There were very few frozen foods.

A little van would drive up to the house and my wife would buy fresh vegetables and eggs from the man. There were supermarkets, but most of the stores were family owned. There wasn't any malls that I recall. Yet in the mid-1990's malls were a very popular center of the community on the baseline reality.

My wife made different kinds of meals. (Which is something that you get used to in this role.) They pretty much consisted of a meat, or fish, with two to three side vegetable dishes, and a carefully prepared dessert.

My wife did not have an electric piano. She had a flute.

Thus, for these two weeks, after work I would go home. She would get me my slippers, pipe and tobacco, fix me a whiskey sour, and I would wear my robe (still with my tie on), and I would relax reading the evening newspaper (with the desk fan on) while she would make dinner.

Dinner was in the kitchen. But the wife had a vase with flowers in it... every day.

Butter was in the form of a big rectangular cube wrapped in newspaper. We also had a funny looking butter knife that looked more like a wide and broad spatula that would be used to slather the butter onto the bread. The funny thing was that the butter was left on the table to get soft. It was not kept in the "refrigerator".

Dinners were much more involved and elaborate. Stuffed peppers, baked ham, city chicken, broiled fish, and lamb roasts. Where before the deep dive, most of our meals consisted of "cheaper foods" such as meat loaf, spaghetti, hot dogs, and egg meals.

Then after dinner, I would sit on the porch, and she would join me after she cleaned up the table. Sometimes our neighbors would walk by the porch and we would spend an hour or so talking. It was really...really different. However, after a few days (once the shock dissipated) I found it truly charming.

As charming as they were, the changes were rather stark and disruptive compared to what I was used to.

On one hand, before the slide I was using a computer at work. Then, when the slide occurred I found myself back at a drafting table working with a manual eraser (not even an electric one). Instead of email, I had a wire basket where inter-department correspondence would be mailed out. I had an "in box" for incoming mail, and an "out box" for out bound mail.

There was a "mail boy" who would deliver the mail two or three times a day.

One world-line I would have a car, and then I would be on one where I needed to take a bus. One would have my wife happily buying presents for her family, and another world-line where she hadn't spoken to them for years. It was extremely disturbing, and made me a little ill.

Here is an interesting aside. My first wife was always "at war" with her family. It was a terribly dysfunctional family with a long history of mental illness. Her parents had the illness and so did all of her brothers and sisters.

Yet, as soon as we hit the world-line with historical influences dating prior to 1913, all the illnesses disappeared. That is correct.

What was the change?

I do not know. No, I do not think that her family's illnesses were associated with the 16th amendment. But maybe, I suspect (after some consideration) that they might have been associated with World War I somehow.

Is that possible? Can some physical event result in long term genetic mental illness? Or, is it just the way the world-lines operate, and the changes were coincidental? I do not know.

One world-line had a phone with push buttons, and then I would have a slide and the new world-line would have three (x3) phones on my desk, all with rotary dials.

On second you are living in a world with modern push-button phones, speed dial, and voice mail. Then a slide would occur, and suddenly your desk would have three telephones of a very old style cluttering it up. Not to mention a big honker of a glass ash tray on it.

The moment I slide back to the non-16th amendment reality world-line, all subsequent slides reflected similar attributes. For instance, all currency was no longer "Federal Reserve Notes", but actually IOU's good for gold or silver coins!

That's right.

I could have taken any one of the notes to any of the banks and exchanged it for hard metal coinage. Amazing! When did all this change? I know that FDR banned all gold and stole it from my grandparents, but I never realized that the banks actually offered physical notes of paper that represented gold and silver coins. Truly amazing!

Further, the bank notes were also much more interesting and colorful.

They described events rather than people and presidents like we currently see on the bills. (Today all the bills have Presidents, with some notable exceptions.) The bills were also in much smaller denominations than what we see today. Heck, I could have probably paid my monthly rent with a five dollar silver certificate! That is how much the world had changed.

Often during a slide the currency would be different. Sometimes it would be substantially different.

These slides continued for maybe another three weeks. I think they went back (in changes and alterations of the past), perhaps three hundred years.

When I finally "hit the end of the line", I was living more or less like an independent land-holder with a comfortable house, a house maid, and a beautiful well-educated wife. The year was the same. It was 1995, as I recall. But the world-line was so very different.

The technology was rather primitive, and that distracted from the benefits of the life that I found myself in. Each step back in time-alteration made the present reality “better”, “calmer”, and more prosperous. The cost to this was a decrease in technology, or better yet, a change in the direction of what technology took.

The Slides

The reader might have the impression that I kept on going deeper and deeper into alternative realities. While that was, to a degree, certainly true, I would also move back to realities that wasn't so different from the (more or less stable) apparent present. So, while I might travel to a world-line where I was using slide rules and dictating to a secretary, I would shortly have a slide to something with computers, video games, and Strawberry Coke.

I don't know why this was the case.

Snap Back to a Continuance

Then, after a week at my (apparent) destination world-line, I was abruptly projected in one of the most amazing and harsh slides of my entire involvement. Then I found myself back in an almost identical world-line to the one that I had initially been on (prior to the great dive). I do not know why this all occurred. No one told me anything, and the drone pilot was as mute as a cinder-block wall.

It totally sucked.

To live one life in the reality with no Federal Income Tax, a peaceful nation much like Switzerland, and eating good healthy food with simpler pursuits to BLAM!... Back in the reality of the mid 1990's with the Soviet Union, high unemployment and Democrats trying every single way they can think of to tax more and more of my money! UGH!

While there is a near infinite number of alternative world-lines possible. My role involved the manipulation of the world-lines associated for the bulk of humanity. And, the vast bulk of humanity chose this current world-line (or ones similar to it). Thus, here I am where the vast bulk of humanity wants to live.

Luckily these kinds of aggressive slides were short lived.

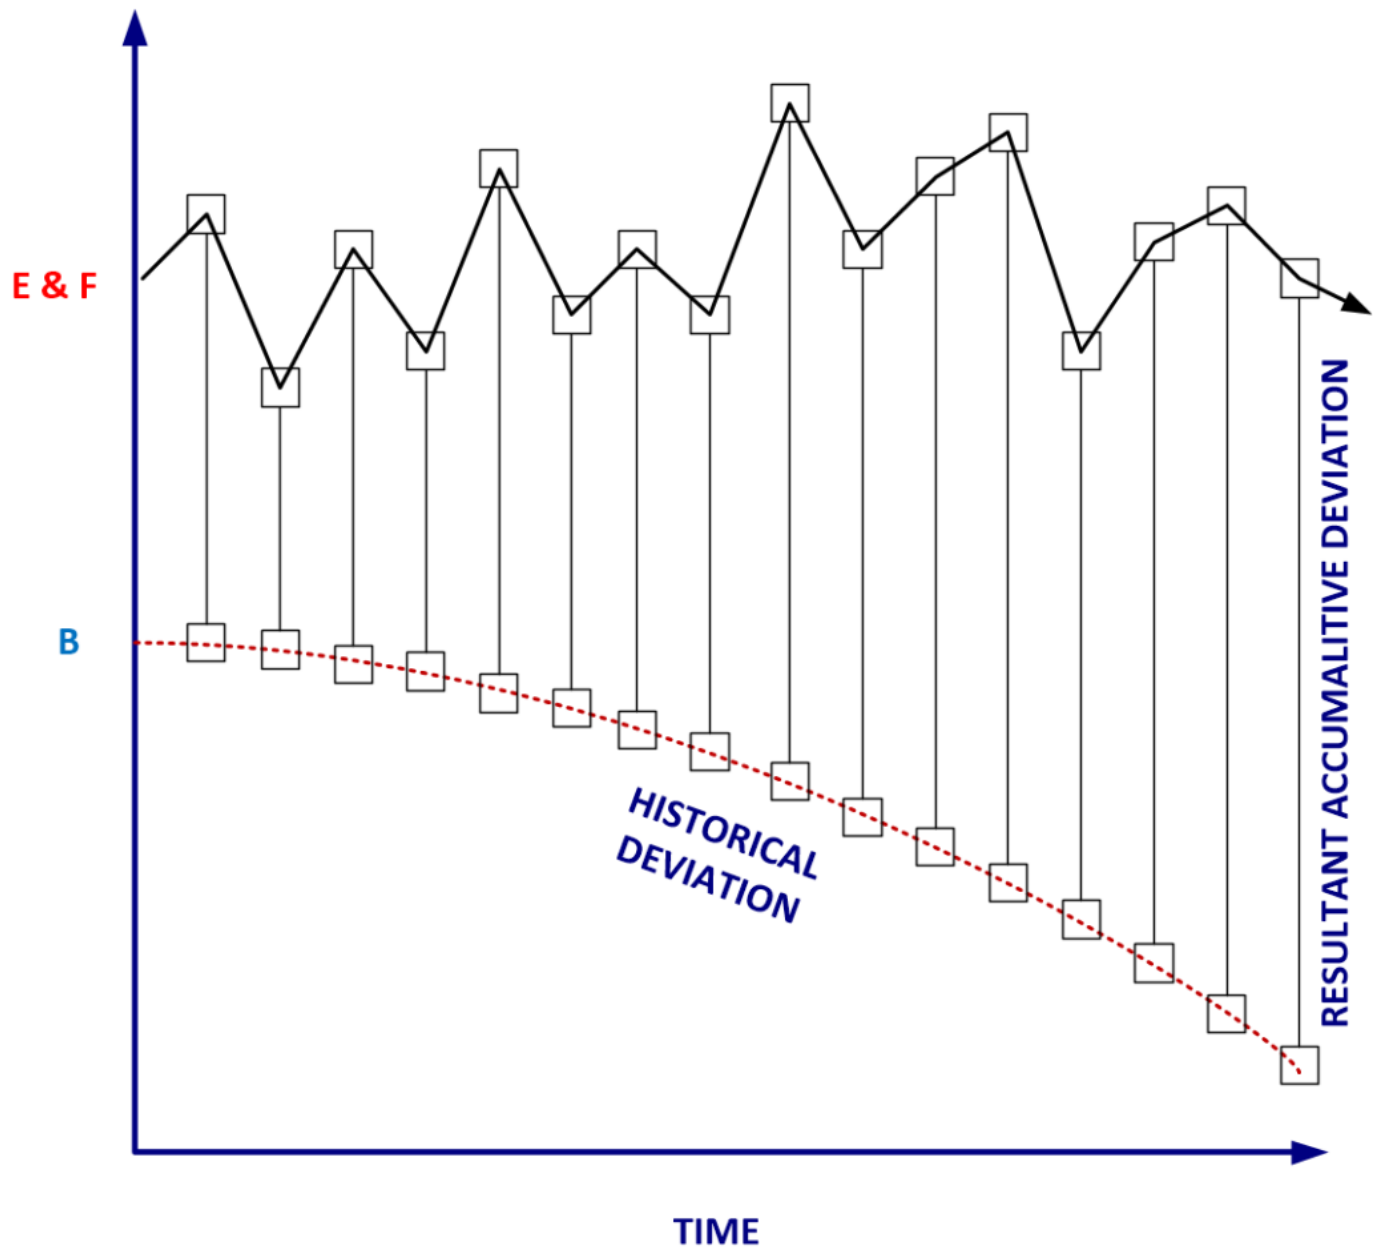

I really do not know WHY suddenly things had to be adjusted like they were. I only know that they were, and my personality (how I reacted to the changes) affected the "dimensional anchoring" process. For indeed, how I felt and acted upon these changes helped to steer the process to new world-lines.

Perhaps that is why my retirement ended up in a world-line where the conditions for my circumstances favor my intentions.

Theories

I have my own theories as to how the entangled <redacted> worked and how the pilot would move the world-lines. They are all probably wildly incorrect. However, if there is one thing that I can posit is that the extremity of a given world-line is a function of how the group-baseline world-lines need to be altered.

I cannot help but speculate that the extreme changes and movements representative of the world-line slides were a function of some radial trends (or contrary trends) on the baseline world-lines.

Accumulated deviation as a result of the “deep dive”. Here is the best way that I can describe how the system worked from the point of view of a traveler.

In other words, if most of the world-lines were starting to move into discordant behaviors, it would be necessary for me to move the “dimensional anchoring process” to a greater deviance level.

The greater the disruption, the resultant corrective actions are required.

MAJestic Commentary

For what ever it is worth. If you were to ask my MAJestic leadership to comment on this post, they would probably say something like this...

MAJestic has no knowledge of any of these “adventures”, experiences or attributes of the sub-program that this agent was part of.

We made an agreement with an extraterrestrial partner and part of that agreement involved a connection of sorts between the agent and an extraterrestrial. How the agent experiences the connection is a personal event, and is beyond our experience. We do not condone nor disparage his statements.

Unless those described experiences personally benefit the reader, the information is useless. As far as the reader is concerned, the agent was involved in a program involving a technologically advanced extraterrestrial species. His experiences in the program were unique and possibly hard to describe to any level of comfort to the reader.

We permit this narrative to be disseminated with the caveat that MAJestic is disassociated with the experiences of this agent.

Conclusions

This post is in response to a question that a number of influencers asked. “What was it like to world-line travel.” This post describes some notable world-line slides. I posit my understanding on how it worked, and the reasons for the slides. I also describe what I learned.

One thing is certain. For me, I was the proverbial frog dipped in and out of hot boiling water. While the rest of humanity is on the stove being cooked alive.

There is an old saying that, you can't kill a frog by dropping him into hot water. As you drop him into the hot water, he reacts so quickly that he immediately jumps out unharmed. But if you put him in cold water and gradually warm it up until it is scalding hot, you have him cooked before he knows it. The encroachment of bad habits in our lives is very much like this.

Take Aways

Screen shot from the movie "The Lathe of Heaven". A man has the ability to change his world-lines through dreams. A bad actor, puts the man under hypnosis so he can personally profit from it, and make the world a "better place" in his image. Notice that everyone is grey? Yeah, that's what happens when you wish away racism.

- World-line travel is not as exciting or interesting as you would see on Hollywood movies such as "Back to the Future", "The lathe of Heaven", or Star Trek's "Mirror Mirror".
- World-line slides varied from hours to weeks in duration.
- The selection of the destination world-lines and the mission objectives involved were beyond my control.
- I had access to the destination world-line coordinates on a "map" of sorts. Unfortunately, I was unable to read the map.
- I personally learned from the different slides on a personal level. As a result I personally find that many Americans have no idea how far America has strayed from the great nation it once was.
- This post describes what it was like being in MAJestic and performing my mission parameters.

MAJestic Related Posts – Training

These are posts and articles that revolve around how I was recruited for MAJestic and my training. Also discussed is the nature of secret programs. I really do not know why the organization was kept so secret. It really wasn't because of any kind of military concern, and the technologies were way too involved for any kind of information transfer. The only conclusion that I can come to is that we were obligated to maintain secrecy at the behalf of our extraterrestrial benefactors.

How to tell if someone is in MAJestic (Part One)

There are many fakers out there. I really do not know what their motivations are. Some might actually have some experience, I don't know. None of them seems to have any kind of background that even approaches the membership I know of. This is how you can sort out the truth from lies.

How to tell if someone is in MAJestic (Part Two)

In this second part, we go into details on how the United States safeguards secrets. We talk about the MJ-12 disclosure and a historical overview of MAJestic. We also discuss the various reasons and restrictions that MAJestic is operating from. It's an important read.

Top Secrets and Flying Pigs

Here I try to explain how the Special Access Program works, and described how the most secret elements of those programs are kept waived and unacknowledged. I discuss why, and use the example of a fictional "Flying Pigs Program". To understand MAJestic, you need to read this.

The “Sales Pitch” Used to Ask Naval Aviators to Give Up Everything for MAJestic

This is a narrative on how I was offered the role within MAJestic. I was in training to be a Naval Aviator when I was called upon by the base commander. He asked me, and another AOCS, to join. This is how he convinced me.

Feducial Training of ELF-Based MWI Access

This is a small post about the training that we needed to learn into to enter into a transport mechanism for MWI access. You cannot access and switch world-lines without being able to access and “center” the implanted probes. This discusses this procedure and training.

MAJestic Mandated ELF-probe Implantation

This post goes into detail on how the first two “kits” of probes were implanted into my head. All of this procedure took place on the Naval base at the ELF substation. At the time, only myself and the other member of my “cell” aside from the Commander took part in this procedure.

My Very First MWI Portal Egress

This is a narrative of my very first experience in world-line travel. It happened immediately after I gave up flying as a Naval Aviator and joined the MAJestic organization. After training on feducials, and implantation, I joined a group of others and left our world-line.

First Egress Destination - EBP Implantation & Entanglement

This is the narrative of what transpired when I entered the Fixed Dimensional portal. I went to an extraterrestrial medical facility where a EBP was installed within my body. I discuss what happened and my first encounter.

Post EBP Reconstruction -Return To The Navy Barracks

This is my narrative on how I exited the dimensional portal and returned back to the Naval base. I discuss what it was like meeting my fellow classmates and how I was instructed to leave the Navy and become a civilian. This is how it is done and what I experienced.

After Implantation – Lost as an Autonomous Vagabond

This is my story of what happened after I joined MAJestic, and left the US Navy. I was fully actuated, but not yet trained in using my abilities. As such, I was a “loose cannon”, and existed in a very confusing state of reality. I was the real life Jason Bourne.

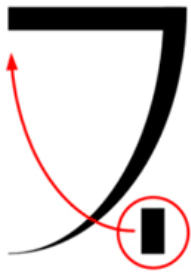

Rescue from the Wilderness – A Special Assignment

This particular post discusses how I found my way back to the Navy again, and began my “training”. I went into the desert to a Naval base located in the middle of the remote desert. At that time, I had no memory that I was part of a secretive military program, and thus the “special assignment” held little tangible meaning for me.

Probe Calibration and World-line Training (Part One)

Here is the story how the set of MAJestic probes, placed inside my skull, were calibrated. This took place after implantation, and involved calibration exercises at the Naval facility at China Lake in California. This is a two part post and discusses the facility and actions there.

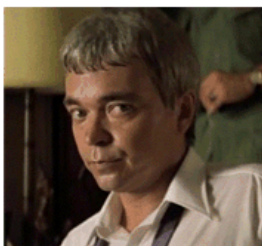

Probe Calibration and World-line Training (Part Two)

This is the second portion of the two part post In this section we talk about how I was instructed in the operation of calibration of the probes and how I was provided with some limited knowledge in how to modify the programming. It wraps up with my exit from training.

Adventures in World-Line Travel

Here are a selection of stories and experiences that I had when I was involved in world-line travel as part of my MAJestic mission parameters. As such, my experiences gave me some insight into the nature of the universe and of our human species. I hope this is an enjoyable read.

MAJestic Mission Shut-down & Retirement

All programs must end. This is how members of MAJestic that have core kit #2 probes implanted are retired. As they all need to be retired in a specially equipped facility and subject to a life time of monitoring. We cover the entire process and what is involved.

The Ultimate Method to Make Your Computer Safe and Secure

The best way to make your computer secure and private is to have very strong encryption and use an obscure operating system that very few people know about. Here we look at 37 obscure computer operating systems.

What life is like inside the ADC Prison in Arkansas

This post discusses what life is like in a hard labor prison in Southern Arkansas. We discuss hoe squads, food, the hole, commissary, dress, fashion, homosexual culture, prison gangs, murders, relationships and other aspects of life when you are sentenced to "Hard Time".

What it was like for me to leave America for China.

This is my story on the final moments of my life in the USA. I had just completed my retirement sequence for MAJestic and I was released to enter the monitoring section of my retirement. I decided to get the tattered remains of my life together and move to China and this is what it was like for me to do so.

MAJestic Related Posts – Our Universe

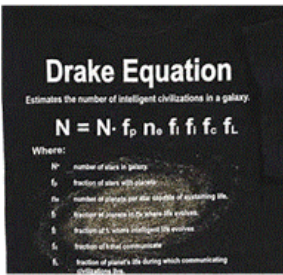

These particular posts are concerned about the universe that we are all part of. Being entangled as I was, and involved in the crazy things that I was, I was given some insight. This insight wasn't anything super special. Rather it offered me perception along with advantage. Here, I try to impart some of that knowledge through discussion.

Enjoy.

The Secrets of the Universe

When people discover what my role was in MAJestic, one of the first things that they ask me is whether or not I can "tell them the secrets of the universe". Certainly, they argue, I must have learned something... Well, I did. Here's the first installment.

The Drake Equation as Viewed by MAJestic

Many people use the Drake Equation to figure out why the average person is not exposed to extraterrestrials. Yet, MAJestic members know the real reason. Here we review the variables within the equation relative to MAJestic understanding and discuss things relatively.

Our Galaxy as Presented to MAJestic

Here is a very general overview of the little that I know about our galaxy. It is a mixture of known and accepted science blended with what I was exposed to in MAJestic. Of course, what is presented is within the limits of what I understand, no more. So it is actually a rough outline.

Sirius is not the home of the Enlightened Extraterrestrials

There is a rather large number of “spiritualists” who are convinced that enlightened beings from the Sirius solar system have come to earth to teach and instruct us humans. I actually find it rather laughable. Here, I review what Sirius actually is and why no great enlightened beings live there.

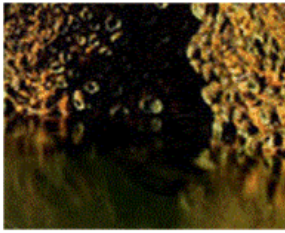

The Alpha Centauri System

Here are my thoughts on the Alpha Centauri System. It is, as always, a mixture of conventional science and what I know through my relationship with MAJestic. Keep in mind, that I am a man with limits. It is but an overview, and what is presented might hold some surprises.

The Fuselage embedded within the rocks of Victoria Falls

There is evidence that there was an accident (of some sort) that damaged a vessel (of some type). Over the years it has become buried in silt, which later turned into stone. Here we study this issue.

The Hammer inside the Rock – The “London Hammer”

Here we have evidence of a shellfish dislodging apparatus or hand-tool that was abandoned millions of years ago. Here we study this artifice. We look at the manufacturing challenges in making such an object and study the environment in which it was lost.

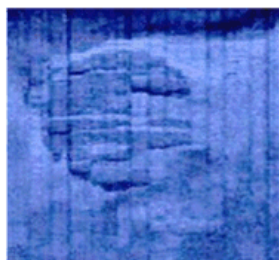

The Hollow Moon

Why is the moon hollow? This is one of those uncomfortable facts that just doesn't jive up with the conventions of accepted scientific knowledge. Yet, every study has confirmed this to be the case. Here we study this issue in detail.

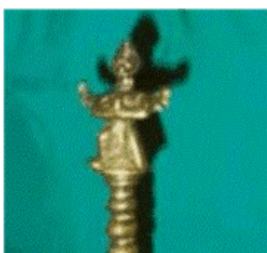

The Mystery of the Lapulapu Ridge

Deep down under the sea in the greatest depths of the Pacific ocean is a mobile underwater city. It's been operating there for many, many years. It has been leaving tracks and debris middens all over the place. Here, we look at this in some detail.

Mystery of the Baltic UFO

Sonar scans, and visual confirmation, indicates that a large disc shaped object skimmed the undersea world of the Baltic sea and crashed. Subsequent investigations were suppressed. Now, all that is available for study are a small pile of rocks. Let's look at this mystery shall we.

Mystery of the Bronze Bell found inside a block of coal.

A hand-bell made out of brass was discovered totally encased in a solid block of coal. What is so interesting about this bell is that it depicts a winged humanoid. The only thing is, the coal dates from a time long before birds, where only insects flew in the skies.

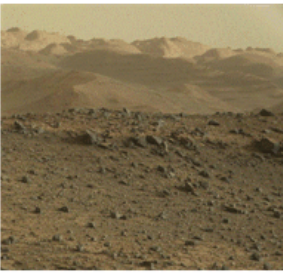

The Oil Lamp Discovered in a block of coal

Many things have been found encased within rock hard coal. One of which is a small “pot”. This is obviously the lower part of an oil lamp, common a few thousand years ago. The problem is what is it doing in millions of year old coal?

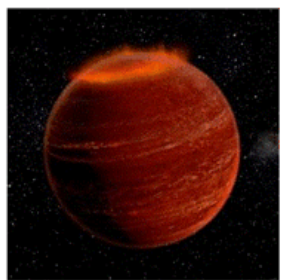

Did Extraterrestrials set up a colony in Pennsylvania?

Sounds really strange doesn't it? Well, here we talk about the possibility of a community of very “unique” red-skinned, horned giants, with firearms were actually a colony of extraterrestrials. It's a long stretch. Yet, we look at them from this prism, as unlikely as it is.

The Oxia Palus Facility.

Here we talk about a facility that I know a lot about. It is a MAJestic aligned facility on the surface of Mars in the Oxia Palus region. It is many things, and was initially a mining operation with a smelting and processing facility. Here we discuss this facility as an overview only.

Let's chat about Brown Dwarf solar systems

Up until a very few years ago, no one knew if Brown Dwarf stars existed. Now we know that they do indeed exist, and that they are everywhere. Most people are unaware of them, but they play an important role as these dwarf stars are the home of many an intelligent extraterrestrial.

NASA Manned Space Exploration - What happened?

When President killed the Apollo space program, and Jimmy Carter neutered NASA, everyone sat back, fat and content that money was not being wasted and that instead American infrastructure was being taken cared for. Here is the real reason why Apollo and manned space died.

The Disclosure of the CARET Program at PACL

A full unapproved disclosure of a MAJestic related reverse engineering program was released to the public. It concerned the CARET program at PACL. It was quickly attacked and debunked. A music video was even generated as part of it. Here is the full documentation package.

Yes, We Do Live in a Multidimensional Universe

Here we discuss how world-line travel is possible. We look at the physics of the MWI and the mathematics involved. We also discuss an overview of Heaven, our universe and how our experiences within our reality are important. In our reality, everything is possible. It really is.

The True Nature of the Universe

This is a discussion on the true nature of the universe and how individual realities fit within its' scope. I consider this an important writing and it acts as a "bridge" between the various "schools of thought" on the nature of our universe. What is presented is for your consideration.

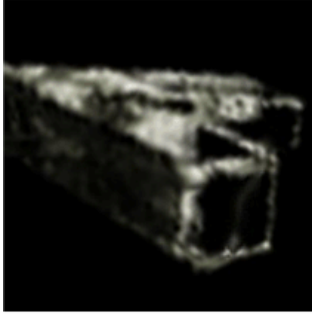

Why our Understanding of Reality is False

Here we discuss four paradoxes of the second law of thermodynamics and use this as a springboard to illustrate that it is impossible to understand our reality within the MWI using Newtonian limitations placed on us through observation.

Evolution of the first sentient life on Earth.

Humans are not the first intelligent life on earth. There were many others. Here we discuss one of the first species of intelligent life; the Cephalopods. They have existed for hundreds of millions of years, and now exist as octopi that inhabit the oceans around us. Let's talk about them.

Transport of an Extraterrestrial Modular Structure

In 2012 through 2014, a huge armada of skyscraper-sized modular components was tracked inbound to our solar system from deep space. They decelerated and landed on the moon. This is the story of how MAJestic scrambled to find out what was going on at this time.

The Frightening Possibility of Genetic Social Stratification

The primary mission requirements that I was involved in lay in assisting our benefactors in human sentience determination. The human race is moving towards a day of evolution and key to that point in time is the chosen sentience we select. It has frightening consequences.

The most common extraterrestrial species that interacts with Americans.

Here we discuss the grey extraterrestrial alien species. Contrary to the public narrative, there are numerous extraterrestrial species that regularly visit the Earth. In fact, they have all been doing so for many, many years.

The Mystery of the Dellschau Flying Contraptions

Here we discuss the mystery of a secret organization wholly devoted to enabling humans to fly. This organization was active years before the Wright brothers ever contemplated manned air flight. The members eventually died off, and all that remains are the records of their adventures.

MAJestic Related Posts – World--

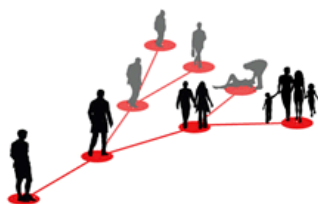

Line Travel

These posts are related to “reality slides”. Other more common terms are “world-line travel”, or the MWI. What people fail to grasp is that when a person has the ability to slide into a different reality (pass into a different world-line), they are able to “touch” Heaven to some extent. Here are posts that cover this topic.

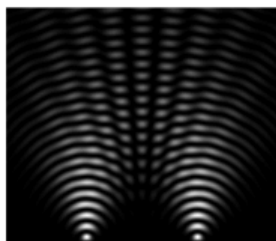

Some True Stories of Cat Heaven

Being in MAJestic taught me many things. One of which was an intimate understanding of Heaven and other “spiritual” things relative to quanta entanglements. Here I discuss what it is like to have a beloved animal (cat) dies and what actually happens to them and why.

Consciousness Migration for World-Line Travel

This post discusses how Heaven was formed, and what reality actually is. It discusses how world-lines function and just what MWI (Many Worlds Interpretation) is. This little post is the foundation of all aspects of my particular involvement with MAJestic. As such, it is important reading material.

What I miss from my original world-line

This is a little micro-post of some of the things that I miss from my time “before” I got involved with MAJestic and all that MWI “stuff”. It really makes no sense to anyone in this reality, but to me, it’s pretty important stuff. It’s simply a compilation of some of the quirks of this reality that are different to me.

Graphic on how world-line travel is possible

Many people are intrigued about world-line travel. They argue that the MWI is too difficult to understand, but thanks to Hollywood, the imagined adventures in alternative world-lines are quite appealing. Here we set forth how the MWI works and how it can be leveraged for world-line travel.

An Observed World-Line Switch - The Aluminum Foil Lady

Here is a report of a person entering this “world-line”. She appears on a busy road and is filmed by an automobile dash cam in the process. She is wearing a protective thermal “space blanket” material coat, and is apparently dressed like a nun. We discuss her and the utility of roads in this context.

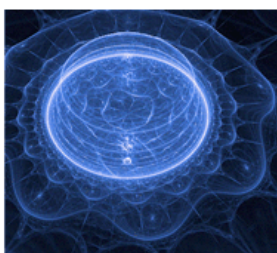

World-Line Travel Using Vehicles - Some Examples

There is ample evidence that people are entering and leaving our reality using various methods and techniques. One of which consists of vehicles with heavy devices that enable world-line cross-over events. Here we discuss these events and look at numerous examples.

A World-Line where the Beatles Never Broke Up

Here is a story about a man who ended up getting hurt and was rescued by someone from an alternative world-line. He tell his story and brings back a Beatles mix tape as proof. We discuss his adventure relative to MWI slides and look at commonality of descriptions.

World-Line Creation and Stability Considerations

Let’s talk a little bit about what a world-line is, how it is accessed, and why it sometimes needs to be accessed. This isn’t full of all kinds of stories about visiting different world-lines, but rather why certain advanced species use the MWI to control the sentience evolution of humans.

ProfessorPhate as an Example of MWI Crossover

In 1999 an individual going by the name “Professorphate” produced a narrative claiming that he was from another world-line. In his narrative he talked about this other world-line and the circumstances that brought him to our apparent reality. Presented for curiosity only.

The “Passage of Time” is actually Observed MWI World-line Slides. Here we discuss what time actually is, and the differences between a dimensional egress portal and a MWI slide. We also use examples, two to be exact, where people have entered and left our reality using a 7th dimensional transport. We discuss how this works and why.

What is the Color of Chartreuse; is it Red or Green?

Many people who have lived through the 1980's, such as myself, clearly remember the color to be a deep red like color. However, our current reality describes this color as a yellow green. This confusion is known as a Alter-vús, and this post describes what is actually going on.

Mandela Effect - A System of Soul Management

Here we look at an interesting mystery that is occasionally observed. It is known as the Mandela effect. Essentially it is a situation whereas our memories do not match up with the reality. Here, we look at it in terms of MAJestic and the management and cultivation of soul growth.

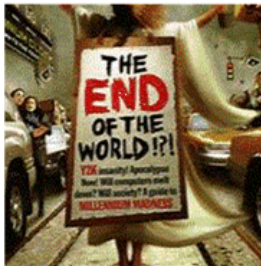

What the difference is between Soul and Consciousness

To understand how our reality exists and what Heaven is like you need to understand the basics of just what we are. Here is one such fundamental understanding. That is the difference between souls and consciousness. For while we think, reason and experience, it is our consciousness that does so for our soul.

John Titor Related Posts

Another person, collectively known by the identity of “John Titor” claimed to utilize world-line (MWI egress) travel to collect artifacts from the past. He is an interesting subject to discuss. Here we have multiple posts in this regard.

They are;

John Titor and World-Line Travel as Time-Travel (Part 1)

This is an introduction to John Titor and his claim that he utilized world-line travel to go into apparent past(s) to acquire equipment. He burst onto the internet in 1998 and left in 2001. He left a trail of mysteries in his wake. In review, knowing what we know today, his story rings true.

John Titor and World-Line Travel as Time-Travel (Part 2)

Here we look at the John Titor narrative that describes what happened in the United States that precipitated civil war, and World War II. We look at it from a point of view twenty years later, and to the surprise of many, he accurately predicted many things that we take for granted now.

John Titor and Details on his Time-Machine (Part 3)

Here we spend some time going into the disclosed details of how the Time Machine actually works. We look at the manual and come up with the conclusion that he actually was hiding something or some elements of the machine. Let's look at this issue.

John Titor and our Reactions to his Disclosure (Part 4)

Strange as it might seem, once the news of John Titor hit the internet, many people had all sorts of reactions to it. Here we review the reactions. They, in themselves, tell us a lot about ourselves, society and about the nature of the universe. Here we look at the reactions.

John Titor - Full Text of his Transcripts (Part 5)

For over a decade the actual transcripts of what John Titor said and his discussions on chat boards were obliterated. The only thing that you could find were websites that said he was a hoax. That all changed when enthusiasts collected and posted his writings. Here are the earliest transcripts.

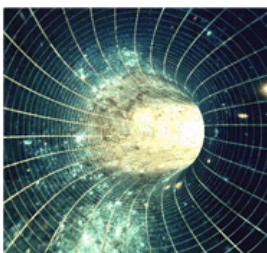

John Titor – Full Text of his Transcripts (Part 6)

There are all sorts of fragments of the John Titor discussions floating in bits and pieces throughout the Internet. This post collects some of the more obscure bits that did not make it into part 5 of the text. These tidbits are interesting but also irritating as the attacks on the narrative are relentless.

John Titor – Full Text of his Transcripts (Part 7)

This is the final discourse from John Titor to the rest of the folks on the BBS “Time Travel” board. He answers questions and responds to requests. He also clarifies things. Of course, the sniping and harping, as irritating as it is, continues unabated. It’s the final posting of this discussion.

John Titor – Full Text of his TTI Board Transcripts (Part 8)

Here is a secondary source for discussions involving John Titor. He subscribed to numerous time travel BBS forums, and this one; TTI is often overlooked. Here, we look at some of his statements on the board. His dialog on this board is very interesting and contains uncommon narratives.
